HIGH TEA FUN FACT ETIQUETTE

Jam with Cream, or Cream with Jam?

This depends on which tea is being served, a Devonshire Tea or Cornish Cream Tea.

In Devon, the scones are split in two and topped with cream followed by jam.

In Cornwall, the split scones are topped with jam and cream.

While it does not necessarily affect the flavour of the cream tea, it will simply come down to personal preference. And if you are wondering how The Queen takes her cream tea, she is recorded as saying:

“Jam first at Buckingham Palace garden parties!”

How to open your scone

Firstly focus on the crease on the edge of the scone. Wrap your hands around the scone, yes that's right, English etiquette requires the scone to be opened with your hands.

Then gradually prise the two sides apart.

Slowly and gently (almost tease) open the scone, taking your time to put pressure on the break to gently crack the scone open in two halves.

THE LEGEND OF THE GLASSHOUSE MOUNTAINS

Tibrogargan, the father, and Beerwah, had many children. Beerwah is pregnant with yet another child. One day Tibrogargan spied a great flood approaching and gathered his children to flee to the mountains. He called his eldest son, Coonowrin, to help his mother, but Coonowrin was frightened and ran away. Enraged, Tibrogargan chased his son and struck him with his club, injuring his neck. After the floodwaters subsided, Coonowrin asked Tibrogargan for forgiveness. He had not known his mother was pregnant and thought that, as the largest of them all, she could look after herself. Tibrogargan turned his back on his son forever; today he still looks out to sea. Beerwah is still pregnant and Coonowrin's injured neck has never healed. The tears of the distraught family form the many streams that flow to the ocean.
